Cotto

Cotto is the name for terracotta, which translates as burnt earth, and is produced in the Italian region of Impruneta. The very robust and durable material was already widely used in Ancient times. Thanks to its unique look, it still enjoys great popularity today and can be found in many lovingly furnished living spaces. Cotto's surface is reminiscent of fine-grained stone or concrete and can be mixed and matched with precious woods and metallic designs in superb combinations. As a true all-rounder.

Characteristics: Stone, grainy, concrete appearance

Application: Surfaces, furniture, worktops, flooring

Fala

NEW from SURTECO

This elegant luxury wood is a genuine jewel. Juval is a chestnut wood that also creates a credible and aristocratic effect in the colours of walnut and cherry wood. Striated sections alternate with flowers in the decor image. A striking feature is provided by the wonderful annual-ring markings. Juval has been created as an all-over decor for floors, styled in an underlying grid of 203 mm.

Characteristics: Slim fingers, dominant pores, knot free, without flowers, 3D-effect

Application: Surface, furniture
